Yo again,

I got a call from a woman at ABC channel 7 New York news. She said they are doing a story on ephedrine based diet products and have MD's telling the dark side. She contacted us because she read on our web site that we have the best selling product out there and wanted an interview on camera from a rep from our company. She wanted someone who sheds light on the positive side of ephedrine. I told her that I could put her in contact with an independent research scientist that is one of the foremost authorities in the world on ephedrine. I made it clear that he is an independent and not a Cytodyne rep. (this way we won't be singled out in this story)

I first contacted Colker before I gave her the contact info. and went over it with him. He is clear that he is not to mention our company and he is an independent researcher. I told him to focus on the ailments, health risks and disease associated with obesity and how they are reduced and eliminated with the use of safe and effective diet products. He is going to be pro-ephedrine from an MD's point of view. The time for the on camera interview is tentatively 1:30 tomorrow (Friday) and probably to be aired this weekend. I felt that Colker, MD, would have more punch than GCI giving any position on this. I'll be home all night after 6:30.
